

Because the FCC protects the Constitutional rights of broadcasters to air their offerings that don't satisfy my particular preference -- as you rightfully should -- I as a consumer find myself paying for radio service that suits my desires. Satelllite XM Radio broadcasts in accordance with all Constitutional and FCC regulations. Members of the NAB who object to the venue can't justify privilege for themselves that don't extend to others. They can't have it both ways. Leave the satellite radio industry alone! If it ain't broke, don't fix it!

Respectfully, John Wells
